Activity Driven Non-linear Diffusion for Color Image ...

Abstract, this paper we extend their use to color images. First, we formulate a general definition for a non-linear diffusion process using the concept of an activity image that can be calculated for several image components.

Noise Reduction Techniques for Video Coding Applications ...

Granular noise is visually bothersome with respect to high quality rendition, and it is a well known source of visual artifacts for coding algorithms. This work considers the application of nonlinear filtering techniques to granular noise reduction and their effects on video coding. The performance of the examined techniques on coded images is
