Rejuvenating the Sun and Avoiding Other Global Catastrophes, Authors: Beech, and how you can join in this massive undertaking to prevent global disaster and keep us in the Sun's life-giving light for the foreseeable future. Show all. About the authors. Associate professor of astronomy, and Head of the Astronomy Department at Campion College, The University of Regina. My main research.
Rejuvenating the Sun and Avoiding Other Global ...
Saskatchewan astronomer Martin Beech's Rejuvenating the Sun and Avoiding Other Global Catastrophes is a slim book that more than satisfies my interest in radical futurology, with its talk of remodeling entire planetary systems, what Beech calls "asteroengineering."
Rejuvenating the Sun and Avoiding Other Global ...
The Sun is only about halfway through its expected lifetime. We are talking about an event that will not take place for billions of years. But it may take that long to engineer (actually, asteroengineer) our way out of the crisis. And in the meantime, we can use the newly developed knowledge and technologies to protect us from more immediate threats, such as asteroid and comet hits, global

Rejuvenating The Sun And Avoiding Other Global ...

Product Description: This book investigates the idea that the distant future evolution of our Sun might be controlled (literally, asteroengineered) so that it maintains its present-day energy output rather than becoming a highly luminous and bloated red giant star a process that, if allowed to develop, will destroy all life on Earth.
